

books from RUSSIA
reading together

Natalia Tumashkova

Natalia Tumashkova is a prominent psychologist and psychotherapist. She was a Special Fellow at the Harvard Medical School, Mass., USA. She specializes in Family and Adolescence Therapy and Psychodrama. She is currently a Head trainer at The Institute of Psychodrama and Counselling in Moscow.

Natalia is also a writer and journalist. She contributes articles to Russian, American and British newspapers and magazines («The Guardian», «Psychologie» and others). She has often appeared on TV participating in cultural and educational programs.

She is certainly the Miranda of the «Telephone Tales...», co-written with her long-term friend and renowned Russian writer Marina Boroditskaya and based on her experience as the mother of two daughters and devoted grannie of four grandchildren.

She lives in St. Petersburg, Russia.

